➡ Project Details

- The President

Inflation and unemployment news are always headline news. These subjects are subject to public opinion and speculation. The opposition parties, employees and employers, business people, civil servants, parents and students all desire a stable economy "0% inflation" and an improved life with the lowest unemployment rate, but is there a way that everyone could have a chance to test macro economical policies and have the chance to distribute the economy's budget. Above all be able to see the results in real time. The answer is yes. The President is an online platform that allows individuals, groups and organizations to test macro economics and view the results for free.

I designed it myself and I used HTML 5/CSS 3, jquery and vue.js for development.

Period : A month Team Size: 1

Role : Designer and Developer

- Life in Christ

This is a single page application (spa) I developed it in html5/css3, vue.js and jquery. It's a responsive website with a collection of verses answering to daily life topics. It has modern form validation and vue-router library.
